New York Bus Trip

The time has come to sign up for our bus trip to New York on Friday, October 17th! The cost for the trip is $55 and will include a continental breakfast on the bus, door prize drawings, and some other surprises. There will be opportunities to visit both the Whole Bead Show and the Softflex Glass Art Bead Festival and to shop at the many bead shops. Registration began at the BBS meeting on September 9th. Payment is due at the time of registration.

There will be 2 pick-up points, Security Park & Ride (near I70) and Carney Park & Ride (on Harford Rd just north of I695). We will arrive in New York at approximately 10am. Upon arriving in New York, we will drop off first at the Glass Bead Festival at the Radisson Martinique (many of the shops are close by), and then at the Whole Bead Show at the Metropolitan Pavilion. Everyone should plan to meet the bus at the Metropolitan Pavilion for a 5:45pm departure and return to Baltimore about 10pm. The bus will stop at a rest stop both on the way to NYC and the return to Baltimore. With the hope of cooler Fall temperatures, two bead shows to visit, and so many shops to browse, this promises to be great fun. If you have any questions or concerns, please feel free to e-mail me.

NEW THIS YEAR

Additional BBS Meeting Day— 1st Saturday of the Month

Check out our new, monthly venue for our intermediate and advanced members - a creative, advanced design forum on the first Saturday of every month.

Recently, there have been many programs and workshops geared specifically for our many beginner beaders. The BBS Board has decided that we need to provide a regular meeting day each month and a contemplative, yet invigorating setting for the more independent, advanced members who are working on individual, unique projects or competitions, and who could benefit from collaborative thinking with other innovative beaders and jewelry artists. There will be no instruction – this is time set aside for designing new pieces and new projects in a supportive environment with others doing the same.

Several times a year, there will be an all-day class offered by a well-known jewelry artist that will take place during the new Saturday advanced program time that will be offered to all interested BBS members.

LIBRARY NEWS

I wanted to let everyone know about our two new volunteers, Betty Martin and Lydia Klaczynski. They have been a huge help so please thank them when you see them. Both Betty and Lydia are able to arrive earlier than I am able to for our meetings and are available to help you find books and check them out or process returning items so the library is open longer before the meetings and you get help more quickly. In addition, Betty has volunteered to handle the periodicals and has done a wonderful job. She took them all home with her and compiled a list of periodicals that have been donated to the library. A copy of the list is with the periodicals in the bookcase where they are housed—further down the wall in the room than the books. We would like to hear from you about your interest in periodicals. The magazine Ornament seems to be quite popular and I am wondering if I should ask for a subscription. My feeling is that most people can afford the less expensive magazines like Bead and Button but we could share something more expensive like Ornament through the library. Let me or Betty know what you think. We have limited space so will eventually have to prioritize.

I have just sent out overdue notices so please return any overdue items. Material is due at the next general meeting after you check it out. Also, I am asking you to limit yourself to 3 books or 5 periodicals at a time. We are a very small library and that seems to me to be fair.

I have been saving my book money and will soon place some orders. Please let me know of any suggestions.

We are still looking for volunteers to take a small piece of the library. We could use someone to subject catalog books, someone to do overdues, and someone to make sure our newsletter gets into the library.

Thank you all for your suggestions and help. It is so nice to see the library being used.

Carol Cypher

Fall 2008

Baltimore Bead Society

Carol Cypher is internationally known as a master of beadwork stitches of all types and has written a book called, "Mastering Beadwork: A Comprehensive Guide of Off-Loom Techniques." Carol teaches all over the world and at every major bead show in the US. She is also an expert on felting and has also written books called, "Hand Felted Jewelry and Beads" and "How We Felt: Designs and Techniques From Contemporary Felt Artists."

This special program of our new beading year was longer than usual. It began at 4 PM with a detailed demonstration on felting a bangle bracelet. There were some felted bangle kits available to purchase. We had a food break and a short business meeting. Carol taught a class of 2 beaded beads -- one was the 5-sided Polygon Beaded Bead and another was a new stitch that Carol just created, the 2-sided Polygon beaded bead. This stitch was not out in the public yet.

You can visit Carol's website, www.carolcypher.com to learn more about her.

Beadfest—Philadelphia - August 2008

Interweave held a night to socialize with other beaders, work on your own projects if you wanted, and meet the people from Interweave. Leslie Rogalski, editor-in-chief of Step By Step Beads, talked with BBS members and showed us a real good tip on threading a needle that works every time.

Happy beaders after the show.
